If you are married and reside in a community property or marital property state, you may need to obtain your spouse's consent if you have not designated your spouse as the primary beneficiary for at least half of your account. If you do not designate a beneficiary, upon your death, the proceeds of this account will be paid to your estate. See your lawyer or other tax professional for additional information and advice.

(This section should be reviewed if the Depositor is married and designates a beneficiary other than the spouse. It is the Depositor's responsibility to determine if this section applies. The Depositor may need to consult with legal counsel. Neither the Custodian nor the Sponsor is liable for any consequences resulting from a failure of the Depositor to provide proper spousal consent.)

I am the spouse of the above-named Depositor. I acknowledge that I have received a full and reasonable disclosure of my spouse's property and financial obligations. Due to any possible consequences of giving up my community or marital property interest in this IRA, I have been advised to see a tax professional or legal adviser.

I hereby consent to the beneficiary designation(s) indicated above. I assume full responsibility for any adverse consequence that may result. No tax or legal advice was given to me by the Custodian or Sponsor.
